Chapter 1 by KirilA

5 people in dark blue suits (the black is not so fashionable for them, already). 5 grim faces, 4 masculine hands, 3 broad forehead, 2 grey heads, 1 pair of shining eyes.

"Today we have to discuss 5 subjects", said the eldest. Her name was Mari.

Chapter 2 by Mihaela Soimaru

"The first one is: What do we do with the growing number of deaths in our country?", "The second one is: Do we try out the new drug that would help us become immortal?", "The third one: If we try it out, how do we decide who gets it pro-bono?". "After discussing these questions, we will get on to the next subjects". After that, they all lowered their grey heads over the papers in front of them and started reading something of the matter. None of them said a word for an hour, they kept reading all the data given to them, not needing to consult with anyone. The time for consultation will soon come.

Chapter 3 by intellikat

Finally, the time for consultation... well, it came.

"I have a response to your first question," said one of the younger men.

"Yes, Sett, please. Go ahead," said the eldest, Mari.

"I believe the answer may be related, logically, to the answer to your second question."

"I hadn't thought of this. Had anyone else?" No one had. "It is a good thing we come here to think, and then to discuss, and consult and such. Very well, then. Let us go ahead and make this immortality drug available to the general public."

"Do you think there are any ethical questions to ask regarding this decision?" asked another man.

"No. But if you feel there may be, you may submit a request for this topic to be brought up in our next meeting to be thought upon, discussed, and consulted upon."

Everyone murmured gently in agreement and sipped from their styrofoam coffee cups.

Chapter 4 by KirilA

"But what we will do with all these people - the immortal and the new-borns? How we will feed them? How will we share the space?" suddenly asked Solei, one of the owners of the broad forehead.

Chapter 5 by KirilA

"We should create a killing system", replied said one of the younger men.

Chapter 6 by intellikat

"Elaborate, please," said Solei.

Chapter 7 by Rinat Menyashev

Simple. Let's start a war. Somewhere far away.

Chapter 8 by Intellikat

"Yeah okay. We will discuss the details in our next meeting," said Solei, draining his cup.

"Goodnight, all."
